As the Court will recall, in five of the cases the United States sued to terminate the state investigations and to enjoin telecommunications carriers from cooperating with the same; the sixth case (Clayton v. AT&T Communications of the Southwest) is a subpoena enforcement action brought by one Commissioner of the Missouri Public Utilities Commission against several AT&T entities.

The "AT&T defendants" are AT&T Corp. (named in United States v. Palermino and United States v. Rabner); Southern Telecommunications Corp. d/b/a AT&T Connecticut, and The Woodbury Telephone Co. d/b/a AT&T Woodbury (named in Palermino); AT&T Communications of the Southwest, Inc., SBC Long Distance, L.L.C., SBC Advanced Solutions, Inc., TCG St. Louis Holdings, Inc. d/b/a TCG St. Louis, Southwestern Bell Telephone L.P., TCG Kansas City, Inc. (named in United States v. Clayton); Cingular Wireless LLC (named in Rabner); and AT&T Communications of New England, Inc. (named in United States v. Volz).

² Qwest Communications International Inc. and Sprint Nextel Corporation are only named as defendants in one of the six cases, i.e., Rabner. The remaining five cases do not include any Qwest or Sprint entities as parties.

The "Verizon defendants" are Verizon Communications Inc., Verizon New England Inc., and Verizon New York Inc.
